Abstract

Pluralism is a condition in which numerous distinct ethnic, religious, or cultural groups are present and tolerated within a society [1]. In most of the business organizations pluralism is common in the working environment. It is one of the most major issues in business ethics policy. The purpose of this research is to review the process and concern of the organization that how they resolve the problems/tensions on pluralism. To cover the research we will visit several business organizations and collect data about the existing groups in the organization, relation between the groups, attitude/behavior of one to another, previous issues created for pluralism, the effect of pluralism on the organization, viewpoint and concern of the authority of the organization for the existing pluralism. For each observation, we will describe the genealogy of the key concepts and review distinct insights regarding organizational pluralism. Then we will make a conclusion of research for pluralism in organizations.
